Global Member Care Resource List

Note: updated 26 January 2006; not all the information has been updated by the organizations in the list, hence there are some inaccuracies

Member Care services are not just for those who are struggling. Everyone needs them! This Global Member Care Resource List is a reference tool for you or your group to take advantage of the many member care resources that exist and are being developed.

This listing is based on the “International Guide for Member Care Resources” in Too Valuable to Lose (1997), and the listing in Doing Member Care Well (2002). The listing is not exhaustive. Rather, it includes a good sampling of some 200 service organizations (primarily Christian groups and individuals and some sending agencies providing interagency resources) around the globe, most of which are actively involved in the care and development of mission personnel.

In general, the main services emphasized are pastoral care, psychological consultation, training, counseling, and medical advice. These member care services are meant to complement the various ones that mission agencies are already providing their own people. They are an important part of the overall member care strategy needed for healthy personnel.

To use this guide, look up the geographic area in which you are interested and then read the brief description of the services that are offered under each listing. Contact one or more of the listings for more specific information about services (types, fee structure, languages spoken, background experience, or referrals).

In case you need more specific information and help, you can also contact one of the Regional Member Care Groups or send an Email to one of the Member Care Forums (see Publications), which can send out your request to a broader group of people who might be able to help. You can also contact regional Evangelical missions associations for possible referrals.

Several agencies also provide services outside of the country where they are located via field visits and email communication. Remember to talk openly with and interview the potential counselor/consultant in order to ensure a good fit between your needs and the types of services that he/she offers. Finding member care resources for missionaries in creative access countries is done discreetly and by word of mouth, rather than via a “public” listing like this one. Be sensitive of security issues as you communicate with people in these countries.

Note that there are several other excellent service agencies that were not included here, due to space limitations or lack of information. A group/person’s inclusion in this listing does not mean we are “certifying” or “vetting” them. Further, certain geographic areas are deliberately not listed for security reasons, and/or because few service agencies are actually located within these regions.

This listing will be updated on a regular basis. It is the responsibility of the organizations listed to contact us for any changes. If there are other organizations and people to include in future updates, please contact Kelly O'Donnell 102172.170@compuserve.com
